Emma Mine Investigation.

O A Geger, who acted as Park's agent after the latter left London testified before the foreign affairs committee that he, after the "cave," finding that Emma shares were declining, sold at a large loss sixteen hundred shares during the first three or four days in June 1872 without receiving any orders from Park to do so. Park was at that time on his way to Salt Lake. After reaching Salt Lake, Park telegraphed him that everything was favorable and directed him to purchase 2,000 shares which he did at from eighteen to nineteen pounds a share. In response to this information which he communicated to Park the latter cabled him to purchase at par or under, 6,000 shares. Witness had purchased 2015 shares when the market going up he could not fill the order. The witness further testified that while Lyon and Johnson were in London they were connected with the bear party and published statements adverse to the mine which they kept all summer and fall and there was also a concentrated effort to destroy the confidence of the English directors and shareholders in the American directors and in the property itself. Park consented that witness should close out his interest in the company and he did so about the 20th of November and came home. During his connection with Park he never heard Park express any distrust or doubt in the value of the mine or its permanence. Park always said the mine was worth what it was sold for. The witness was in England in 1875 while the testimony was being taken in the Emma mine suit against the vendors. He heard no charge or complaint that fraud had been practiced by the vendors. It was not said by any one that Park used improper or unfair means to effect the sale

The committee adjourned till to-morrow, when Park's cross examination will be resumed and concluded

Argument against Lawrence's Bill Heard.

Evarts argued this bill was an alteration by act of Congress to make a new contract with the company in violation of the charter acts of 1862 and 1864, a thing which he contended was unconstitutional and [illegible] be done. He stated that the companies were willing to create a sinking fund by the surrender of a large portion of their lands in connection with money payments and called attention to a bill that was to be introduced by Representative McCrary of Iowa at the request of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, the provisions of which are described in a letter from President Dillon as follows

In behalf of the U P Railroad Company I desire to state that being anxious to make some fair adjustment with the government of its advances to this company we are willing to make a settlement on the following basis: We will sell to the government all lands on the main line of the road west of the 100th meridian at the government price of $[illegible] per acre [illegible] to start the sinking fund to which we will add $[illegible] [illegible] cash and [illegible] payments as shall with the interest [illegible] each six months and [illegible] [illegible] It is the general plan of [illegible] which is viewed by [illegible] and the company [illegible] respectfully

Kilbourn Habeas Corpus Case.

The defeat of the committee on judiciary in the Kilbourn case was very sensibly felt: Seventy three Democrats voted favorably 71 against. London Foreign Crop Prospects

LONDON, April 18.—The Mark Lane Express says great progress has been made with all cereals. In Spring plowing, sowing and harrowing are proceeding satisfactorily. The quantity of wheat sown however is below the average. Farmers prefer to use their land for other purposes, the prices [illegible] them to compete with the cheap labor of America Russia or India. Trade during the past week has undergone no marked alteration, sales having been strictly of a consumptive character. All qualities, except fine white sorts, have realized less money. The results of the stock taking at the beginning of the month show very small diminution, London showing about 140,000 quarters against 80,000 quarters at the end of 1875. For the quarter of the year now commenced a large consumption of foreign wheat may be fairly anticipated. The police and military were under arms but abstained from interference

The Standard's correspondent at Limerick says the Home Rule procession numbered 1000 and consisted of trade guilds with bands banners &c. Butt O'Shaughnessy and O'Sullivan occupied a carriage in the line. The Nationalists were only a few hundred in number but were well armed with stones clubs and knives and had evidently drilled for the fight. The Nationalists, in the first onset succeeded in smashing the musical instruments and destroying the banners of the Home Rulers but they were at last driven into a public house which was completely wrecked. The cause of the riot was the discontent of the Nationalists who form a remnant of the Fenian party, at what they declare to be the utter neglect of the Home Rule question by the so called Home Rule leaders during the present session of Parliament. The intended demonstration of Butt was a failure. The crowd which was expected from the country did not come in. The speeches could not be heard as the Nationalists renewed the disturbances. Worse fighting was feared during the night and there was considerable alarm as the Nationalists were known to have resolved to renew the row consequently the police patrolled the streets. At 10 o'clock some arrests were made. It is thought over 100 persons were wounded in the riot, of whom forty are seriously and six fatally injured.

At the meeting Butt spoke hopefully of the prospects of the cause. He pointed to the efforts of the party during the session to obtain reforms in connection with parliamentary and municipal franchise. He declared if Ireland had a native Parliament to foster Ireland's industry Galway and Limerick would each have transatlantic packet stations

FROM YAMHILL

MCMINNVILLE, April 17, 1876

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Politically everything is quiet in this county but at the same time there seems to be an unusual earnestness. The fact that this is the Centennial awakens the latent patriotism and the discovery of so much crookedness gives us to understand that something should be done

There will perhaps be but two county tickets in the field. The Independents so far as heard from prefer to act with the old parties. Judging from the past it is certain that the Republicans will elect the county officers if good men are nominated but if either party puts out a bad ticket it will surely be defeated. Voters are independent and will vote for the best men without regard to party more than ever before. Politicians recognize this independence and know the people will not tolerate the trickery of the past. More importance is attached to primaries than formerly and any attempt to control them by fraud would insure the defeat of all concerned. Formerly, the working class especially the farmers paid very little attention to conventions. They always considered it a debt they owed their country to vote at the general election, but the most important duty assisting in making a good ticket was neglected. Many have seen their mistake and the people may expect a change in the management of affairs

The Democrats met in primary conventions in the different precincts last Saturday. Heavy rains had stopped all kinds of business and the people being idle the turnout was respectable. It was everywhere remarked however, that the farmers lacked much of their usual enthusiasm. By their works they are not favorably known and the growing tendency among the voters to think and act for themselves does not inspire the demagogues with much hope. You can count on Yamhill for her share of Republican legislators

NEWTON HIBBS

A letter from Rome gives the following description of a visit to the home of Garibaldi:

His house is a handsome two story structure of cream color standing within a high wall in front and in the midst of a garden with trees and flowers and conservatories around. The salon into which we came was a large plain room with its windows to the south. The day was bright and beautiful and the sunlight filled the room. It was a room without ornament. Tables were around upon which were books and maps. In the center of the room stood a large table also covered with books maps and papers and in front of this table sat the eagle eyed old man fronting us as we entered. We at once advanced and with the least ceremony in[troduced] ourselves. He held out his hand all cramped and twisted with rheumatism and received us sitting. He suffers dreadfully from this disorder and can only get about at all upon his crutches. But though his body is drawn and cramped so badly the brightness of his eye is not dimmed nor is the sweetness and intelligence of his face diminished and he conversed as cheerfully and freely with us as we could have wished"

The Belknap Impeachment Trial.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—There was unusual activity long before the hour [illegible] preparatory to the impeachment trial of Belknap [illegible] the time fixed for the return of the process issued on the [illegible] requiring him to appear and answer the articles of impeachment presented by the House. In the area in front of the presiding officer of the Senate tables were placed for the counsel of Belknap and the managers. In the space in the rear of the Senators seats chairs were placed for the members of the House. The galleries were well filled before 11 o'clock and when the Senate was called to order [illegible] there was not a seat to be obtained. A large portion of the gentlemen's gallery on the left of the diplomatic gallery was reserved [for] ladies and filled into their regular gallery on the right of the chamber. A large majority of the audience was composed of ladies. After the journal of Thursday's proceedings had been read various petitions and memorials were presented but at 12 0 legislative business was suspended and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of the articles of impeachment against Belknap. After proclamation by Sergeant at Arms French Chief Justice Waite administered the oath to Senator Allison Burnside Christiancy Dennis Conkling Caperton Goldthwaite Howe Jones of Nevada, Morrill of Maine Ransom and Robertson, who were not present when the other Senators were sworn a few days ago. Senators Alcorn and Johnston of Vermont English Patterson and Wadleigh were not present to take the oath

On motion of Edmunds it was ordered that the Secretary notify the House that the Senate was ready to proceed with the trial and that seats had been provided in the Senate for the members. At 12 25 ex Secretary Belknap with his counsel Carpenter Black and Blair entered the Senate chamber and proceeded to the table provided for them. The ex Secretary walked to the table leaning on the arm of Carpenter and took a seat between him and Judge Black. He appeared very nervous and began reading as soon as seated but soon dropped the pamphlet and conversed with his counsel

The managers of the impeachment and the members of the House appeared at 1 o'clock but a quarter of an hour had elapsed before all were seated. When the minutes of the court of impeachment held on Wednesday the 5th inst had been read by Gorham secretary of the Senate, and the return on the writ served upon the ex secretary having been read and the sergeant at arms having called upon him to answer Carpenter of counsel for the ex secretary, read and had filed a plea denying the jurisdiction of the Senate to try Belknap on the articles of impeachment as he was not an officer of the United States at the time such articles were found and presented to the Senate; that he has not since been nor is now an officer of the United States but was and is a private citizen of the United States and of the State of Iowa. Lord on the part of the managers asked that time be allowed them until Wednesday the 19th inst to consider what replication shall be made to the plea of Belknap and it was so ordered by the Senate

The managers and counsel for the accused having in reply to questions of the president pro tem said that they had nothing further to propose the Senate sitting as a court of impeachment adjourned until Wednesday next and resumed the consideration of legislative business

Mitchell from the committee on privileges and elections reported a resolution to pay Pinchback late contestant to the seat from Louisiana a sum equal to the compensation and mileage of a Senator from the beginning of the term for which he was contestant to the termination of the contest by the Senate; ordered printed and laid on the table

Thurman gave notice that at the earliest time possible he will call up his motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill in relation to counting votes for President and Vice President was passed

Booth from the committee on public lands reported favorably the bill granting a site for an observatory to the trustees of the Lick observatory, of the astronomical department of the university of California

Morton gave notice that on Monday next he would ask the Senate to proceed to the consideration of the resolutions submitted by him early in the session in regard to the rights of States and the true national character of the government

Adjourned,

House.

The debate on the Kilbourn habeas corpus case was interrupted by the House proceeding in a body to the Senate to attend the impeachment trial of the late Secretary of War. On returning therefrom the discussion was resumed

Lynde's substitute was proposed but was violently opposed by Tucker, who claimed that the recusant witness should remain in the custody of the House. In the course of his argument he declared that Judge Carter's refusal to hear the motion without the body being produced would show that corruption was spread from the real estate pool so as even to taint the ermine of the judiciary of the District. [Applause.]

Garfield—There would be just as good a right to say the statement which the gentleman made would only have been made in case corruption reached [illegible] ear to the house—(Counter applause on the Republican side)—and caused it to strike at the judiciary

Tucker—The judge should be made to tell the House by his conscience if he has one and by a power superior to it if he has not

Blaine here inquired how the judge could be made to do anything by the House of Representatives?

Tucker—The gentleman is no lawyer, as he has often shown in this house (laughter) and is perhaps unaware that if a judge does not execute his duty he may be made to do so

Blaine—By order of the House of Representatives?

Tucker—No sir but a mandamus from a higher court will compel him to exercise the jurisdiction which he is reluctant to do

Blaine said he did not know why the gentleman from Virginia should have manifested so much asperity in the remarks addressed to him. He (Blaine) thanked God he was not a lawyer, trained in the school that the gentleman was. He thanked God he was not such a lawyer as the gentleman who as attorney general of Virginia had given an opinion that the local authorities of that State might invade the postoffice and compel the postmaster to give up the contents of the mail. Blaine continued amid great excitement: The gentleman represents and with great ability that which is known as the great state rights school which received its chief inspiration from Jefferson and other great leaders of Virginia and yet he stands here to plead that this House possesses power of which there is no review anywhere except in itself. Jefferson said expressly that this government was constructed so that absolute power resided nowhere and he defied anybody to show that there was absolute power in any department of the government. The ultimate judgment of the supreme court of the United States may seem absolute but if the power of that court is abused the power of impeachment resides in the House to punish it. But the gentleman from Virginia professing to represent the spirit of Jefferson says this House may take anybody on any pretense and imprison him at its pleasure, and that there does not exist in law to-day the slightest power of relief or review. I thank God again that I have not read law in that school [Renewed plaudits on the Republican side]

Tucker denied having been intentionally offensive to Blaine, but repeated that this debate showed that he was no lawyer, but there is one thing he is and that is a Pharisee [Applause]

I thank God said Blaine, finishing the quotation that I am not as other men

Tucker—The gentleman says he thanks God he is not as I am. I thank my Heavenly Father there is no resemblance between us. I say amen to that with all my heart. He thanks God he is not as other men are—even as this poor publican [Applause and laughter]

Blaine (adding to sentence)—late attorney general of Virginia

Tucker (accepting the addition)—I am proud to have represented the old commonwealth in that position and on this floor. I remember the opinion to which the gentleman refers. It seems to me instead of studying the laws of his country the gentleman has been studying to see if he cannot get points on his colleagues in the committee on ways and means and members of the House with which he may twit and taunt them when occasion arises. The opinion I gave was on a question of what mail matter the citizens of that State could receive. It was a question of State law

Blaine (eagerly and triumphantly)—That is it and the gentleman holds that doctrine to-day I understand

Tucker (defiantly) I hold to day—

Blaine (interrupting, or touching the point)—That the [illegible] can be arrested and interrupted in Virginia by a country justice of the peace [Republican plaudits]—that is the opinion

Tucker—I hold that opinion yet and the gentleman has shown that he is no constitutional lawyer when he does not recognize the distinction which is as old as the decisions of Chief Justice Marshall that the distinction between the commercial power of the federal government and the police power of the States is as wide as the poles and so wide that even the undisciplined mind of the gentleman from Maine might have recognized it [Applause]

Blaine—When does the power of the general government and of the post office department end and when does the power of States begin?

Tucker—There is an old adage that a child may ask questions which a wise man cannot answer. If he [illegible] had read the case of Brown against the State of Maryland he would have found the distinction as to when goods cease to be imports and become commodities within the State's jurisdiction taken by Chief Justice Marshall with so much purity that Taney who opposed it at the time when he was at the bar approved it afterwards when he came on the bench

Blaine—And therefore the gentleman treats post office matter as goods

Tucker (emphatically) I thought the gentleman no lawyer but I did suppose he had read some books on logic. But now I do not believe that he is either a lawyer or logician [Democratic applause]

Blaine—According to Virginia standard no

Tucker—The gentleman says he thanks God he was not brought up in the school of States rights as I was. He certainly was brought up in a very different school. The difference between us in our views on the federal constitution are very wide but I will not go into that matter. I am proud to be long [illegible] State rights is the great [illegible] that is to go along with the bloody shirt [illegible] political [illegible]. The gentleman from Maine will bring it up on all occasions to flaunt it in the face of the multitude. The hero of the bloody shirt is at the other end of the capitol and the hero of States rights [illegible] on this end [illegible] I do not know where the great unknown stands [Laughter and applause]

The debate was further continued by Jones against the resolutions of the judiciary committee and by Lord and Lawrence and Hurd of Ohio in favor of the substitute offered by Lynde directing the sergeant at arms to make return to the writ and produce Kilbourn before the court; adopted, yeas 142, nays 75. The great body of the Republican members and nearly half of the Democrats voted for the substitute

Randall offered a resolution that in further proceedings in the impeachment case the House shall appear before the Senate only by its managers; adopted

McCrary introduced a bill which was referred to create a sinking fund for the liquidation of the government bonds advanced to the Union Pacific Railroad Company

The House then at 6 o'clock adjourned

Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Merrimon submitted a resolution instructing the judiciary committee to inquire into the expediency of providing a reasonable statute of limitations bearing on the part of the United States to sue upon official bonds with leave to report by bill or otherwise; agreed to

Anthony introduced a bill relating to the sale of the Congressional Record and other public documents. It authorizes the congressional printer to furnish copies of the Record and extracts therefrom, to members of Congress at cost and other public documents with 10 per cent additional thereon and to collect. After debate the resolution passed

Sherman from the committee on finance reported favorably on Senate bill to amend the laws relating to legal tender of silver coin—placed on calendar—and gave notice he would call it up for consideration on Thursday last. The bill comprises the main features of the two sections which were proposed by this committee as amendments to the House silver currency bill, but which were subsequently withdrawn. The bill will provide for the coinage of silver to be legal tender for any amount not exceeding $20 in one payment except for customs dues and interest on the public debt. The legal tender power of trade dollars is to be totally abolished. The other existing silver coins are to remain legal tender for all amounts fixed by law. The bill will however limit the issue of new silver dollars to $50,000,000 and the provisions heretofore recommended by the committee to allow the holder of bullion to exchange it at its market value for legal dollars at their face value will be omitted from the bill

The Senate then proceeded to consideration of unfinished business being the bill authorizing the repavement of Pennsylvania avenue

The amendment appropriating $10,000 to pay for stone for the Parkersburg postoffice was adopted

The amendment appropriating $25,000 for the subsistence of the Apache Indians in New Mexico was agreed to. The bill was further amended so that the compensation of the Black Hills commissioners should not exceed $8 daily. The bill then passed

The bill to amend the act making appropriations for the expenses of the Indian Department in regard to sureties of Indian agents books bonds and accounts was reported favorably and placed on the calendar. Adjourned.

House.

The contested election case of Walls of Florida was taken up. Several speeches were made but no vote reached

Soon after the House took a recess until evening when the bill to transfer the Indian bureau to the War Department will be considered. Speeches favoring the transfer were made by Culbertson, Hooker and Banning. Adjourned.

The Chinese Investigation.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—Capt Joy of the steamer Crocus recently arrived from Hongkong with a cargo of coolies, was brought before the Senate commission this morning, and stated that so far as he knew his passengers paid their own fare and came here in belief that money was to be made in abundance and with little trouble. Effort was made to ship about 500 Chinese women on his vessel, but being convinced they were being sent for purposes of prostitution, he notified the American consul, and they were ordered ashore. He has been recently in the trade between China and Australia in the Crocus, and says a strong feeling exists in Australia against the Chinese, and that a movement has been inaugurated which has resulted in the return of many to China.

Arrival of 1,000 Chinese.

The Pacific Mail steamer Great Republic arrived this morning from China and Japan, and anchored in the stream. The police authorities have made arrangements to have a number of officers in attendance at the Mail dock and along Brannan and Third streets to protect the passengers from annoyance if necessary on the way to Chinatown. She brings about one thousand Chinese in the steerage, and a number of Japanese in the cabin en route to New York. She is expected to haul into the dock about noon

Anti-Chinese Labor Organization.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—The boot and shoe makers and dealers held a meeting this evening and took preparatory steps towards forming an anti Chinese club. Another meeting will be held on Wednesday evening for organization and to fix upon the time for calling a mass meeting some time next week. Among those present was E B Wooster, boot and shoe manufacturer from Waterbury, Connecticut, who came to this coast for the purpose of obtaining a force of Chinamen to work in his factory, but who on seeing the kind of people they are, has abandoned the project and asserts his determination of adhering to white labor. He expressed himself much surprised at what he saw and seemed to be of opinion that the subject of Chinese labor was very generally misunderstood in the East

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—This afternoon as Capt H A Burns, of the Sumner Guards was shooting at the thousand yards distance, at the Bay View rifle range the disc which was attached to the target to mark the last shot fell off. The marker a young man named Henry Graves, jumped from the pit to readjust it without hoisting the danger flag. Captain Burns fired the instant before he emerged from the shelter, and Graves received the ball through the arm and head killing him instantly. Burns came into town in custody of an officer, but was released on his own recognizance, pending the result of the inquest to-morrow

Two little sons of Jonathan Grant aged respectively 6 and 8 years were gathering flowers on the State Fair Grounds on Sunday last, and were attacked by one of four ruffians, who hit the elder one of the little fellows on the head with a piece of lumber cutting a severe gash and knocking him senseless. The smaller boy ran off when the four hoodlums took the wounded one to a pump and restored him and tied a handkerchief around his head and then left. Mr Grant will pay a liberal reward for the owner of that handkerchief.

Quite recently, says the Walla Walla Statesman, J W Sleeper & Co, of Connor creek mines, Baker county, struck a very rich body of ore. It is stated that in quality and quantity it excels anything heretofore struck in this famous mine. The ledge is eight feet wide, and the ore is taken from a depth of 300 feet. Of this body of ore, three feet in width fairly sparkles with gold, and the balance of the ledge is good milling rock which will run from $15 to $20 per ton. The mine is very easily worked, very little blasting being required. Rock can be taken out and milled at a cost of $7 per ton, including wear and tear of machinery. In a run of three days (five stamps) Mr Sleeper cleaned up 70 ounces which in bar was 814 fine, gold. Mr. Ruhl, just down from Baker City, has presented us with a specimen of the rock taken from this lead. This specimen glistens all over with the precious metal, and if there is much more of the same kind, the owners have struck it big.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN.

I noticed in your daily of April 8th, that "Another One Has His Say;" and if it is free to all I should like to have my say also. I consider myself an old Oregonian, but the "Old One" who had his say on the 8th inst., must be older in Oregon. I am only from 1841. At that time Oregon did not extend to the North Pole, for the British held a disputed line or right. I have been amused often since 1870,—which, I think is the first time I saw anything said of the name of your river. The names I know are not derived from Lewis, nor Clarke, nor from Rev. S. Parker, nor from the mother of the three Willards, but from the old Indians that lived at Oregon City. The Indian name, as far back as they knew, was Whallamet, the English Wallamet, the French Wellamet. Those acquainted with the way rivers are named by Indians know the names are given only for a certain distance of the river, and are always from something on land or water. Whallamet was named from a small prairie not far below H Burns' blacksmith shop on the Linn City side of the river, Whallamet came down to Mal-too-no-mah. Above the falls was Cham-puy-ack, deriving its name up the river to an old wheat landing on the east side of the river. These were the names in my time

RESULTS OF A LETTER TO GEN. BELKNAP.—The St Louis Republican says "A gentleman now doing business in this city, and who served in the army during the war, contributes the following to the fund of peculiar anecdotes that have been developed out of the recent and progressing investigations at Washington. Of course there is a post tradership in the story. During the war the gentleman made the acquaintance of Belknap, meeting him first at Shiloh. The acquaintance became quite intimate, and continued after the war ended. In 1871 the gentleman concluded he would like to have a post tradership, and hearing that the place at Camp Douglas, near Salt Lake City, was vacant made applications for it by letter. No notice whatever was taken of the applications. A few weeks afterward a man named Maguire, claiming to be a lawyer from Washington, D. C., came to the gentleman and made a point-blank offer to sell him the tradership at Camp Douglas for $2,500. The offer would have been accepted, but Mr Maguire declined to guarantee the purchaser a year's undisturbed possession of the tradership, and so nothing came of the matter. But the one thing that always puzzled the St. Louis man was to understand how Mr Maguire ever learned that he was an applicant for a tradership. So far as he can remember, no one could have had any knowledge of those letters except through the person to whom they were addressed."

Senators have their little idiosyncracies, like other mortals. A Washington correspondent says that Senator Thurman uses a red bandanna handkerchief and blows the loudest nose in America. On one occasion Senator Jones of Nevada, who, early in life had been a brakeman on a railroad, dropped to sleep at his desk. Senator Thurman, whose seat is near the bonanza statesman solemnly waved his red bandanna and gave his nose a terrific snort. The sleeping Senator sprang to his feet and seizing his desk, commenced twisting it with all his might. He afterward explained that he thought Thurman's blow was an engine whistling "down brakes," and the red handkerchief a signal of distress, hence his wrenching of the desk

THE BOLT AT SALEM.

Some of the Democrats of Salem are in a petulant state of mind over the disorderly conduct of some others of the party. The trouble appears to be that a considerable number who have been heretofore counted as belonging to the faith [illegible] the idea of being dragooned into supporting the men and measures and methods determined upon by the ring in secret conclave, and have shown their distaste by a vigorous exercise of the divine right to bolt. As a general rule people do not bolt the action of their party without sufficient cause. A bolt is [illegible] in most cases presumptive evidence that the moral sentiments of those who have moral sentiments have been outraged by the political manipulators.

We do not make these remarks for the purpose of aggravating the disorders that have broken out among the brethren at the City of Peace. We should be glad, on the contrary, to see them smoking the calumet in the most loving unity. Indeed it is in some measure a desire to re-establish fraternal relations and promote unity and concord in their tents that we refer to the subject at this time. We can not in conscience refrain from expressing the conviction that the sin charged upon the recalcitrant brethren is greatly exaggerated. It is alleged that they seceded from the regular primary and organized an irregular one because they could not control the former. That is probably true. That is exactly the reason why people generally leave the councils of those with whom they have been wont to act. If those who believe in honesty in politics and wish to see political meetings and conventions conducted with fairness and for the best interests of the people at large and not merely as means of swindling the masses of community for the personal advantage of the ring managers could control the action of such assemblages and prevent abuses they would of course not bolt. When they cannot do so they have no alternative but to raise the banner of righteous rebellion or become parties to the wrong done by the selfish managers. To bolt, under such circumstances, is not only the right but the duty of the citizen; to submit from slavish subjection to partisan domination, is unworthy the name of citizen or freeman, is to degrade citizenship and disgrace manhood.

But it is charged that prominent among the Salem bolters was a person who openly declared that he had heretofore scratched his ticket. We are not informed who this individual is, but the chances are that he is a good man. At least it is to his credit that he has had sufficient courage and the loyalty to duty to scratch his ticket. The corruptions that have grown up in every branch of the public service, until they threaten the very existence of the Republic, have their springs in that blind devotion to party which does not scratch the ticket fixed up by the party managers for the people to swallow without question. The politicians, we are aware, do not fancy the man who scratches his ticket, because they know they can not use him to accomplish their personal objects; but he is, nevertheless, the best friend of the people, the best citizen, the truest patriot.

It is understood the bolt at Salem is a protest against the desperate methods resorted to by the Governor in his campaign for the United States Senate. There is one instance in the history of Oregon, where success was reached mainly through infamous outrages perpetrated on the people at their primary meetings. It need not be said we allude to the case of our anonymous Senator of the bigamous distinction. The means by which he achieved his elevation were worthy the character of the man, and the unanimity and cordiality with which he is now despised by the party of which he was a member as well as by the whole people of the State he has disgraced demonstrate how completely honors thus secured turn to ashes in the hands of their possessor. Governor Grover should learn a lesson from that case, and be content with such preferment as the people of his State in the free and fair expression of their partiality think proper to give him.

BABCOCK'S BURGLARY CASE.

The alacrity with which Boss Shepherd flew to the relief of Gen. Babcock the other day when the latter was indicted for the famous safe burglary is something affecting. It appears Gen. Babcock was expecting to be indicted and had mentioned the matter to Shepherd, who repaired with him to the exact place where it would be most convenient for the proper officer to arrest him, and there the two stood ready to be offered up, till the supreme moment arrived when the General was nabbed in strict accordance with his prediction. Then his noble friend forthwith attached his responsible autograph at the bottom of an undertaking in the sum of $20,000 and the two waltzed [illegible] into the free air as light hearted as young magpies, or at the very least as light hearted as it was possible for them to be under the circumstances.

The disinterested friendship of Mr. Shepherd in this little affair really so [illegible] as almost to make it impossible to notice any other feature of the case. The imagination goes forward to the day when the case is to be called for trial and beholds Gen. Babcock entering into the court room with more than Damon's promptitude to relieve the friend who with little less than Pythias' [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of a friend [illegible] [illegible] it was much [illegible] [illegible] and when the [illegible] has become sufficiently [illegible] to the [illegible] dazzled or bewildered by its contemplation, and when the intellect [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] a sort to lengthen the [illegible] crowd themselves forward [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] in the first place how did Babcock [illegible] to know [illegible] [illegible] to be [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] there are two ways in which a man may be supposed to know, or reasonably suppose he is going to be indicted. One when he knows he is guilty and that his guilt can be made to appear with sufficient certainty to render an indictment the most natural thing; the other when he has a friend in the grand jury who has no regard for his oath of secrecy, or [illegible] him of his danger, so he can make his [illegible] as he should deem it necessary. Gen. Babcock has not seen fit to [illegible]. His success in eluding justice in the crooked whisky case added to his opportunities for the use of [illegible] means he seems accustomed to at Washington possibly impart a feeling of safety to his situation. The bad eminence attained by a particular crowd about the national capital in the matter of controlling the course of justice is a circumstance against him. Still he may be innocent. After all that has come to light as to his sinuous ways it seems almost past belief that he is a common thief. The very vulgarity of the offense of which he is accused argues that he must be innocent of it.

The following is the assignment of parts to the various managers of the impeachment of Belknap made by Mr. Lord, their chairman:

First (Rules)—Lord, Lynde, Jenks and Hoar.
Second (Pleadings)—Knott, McMahon and Jenks.
Third (Jurisdiction of the Senate)—Lord, Knott and Hoar.
Fourth (Opening)—Lynde.
Fifth (Preparation for the Trial of the Fact and the Examination of the Witnesses)—McMahon, Lynde and Lapham.
Sixth (Question of Law in the Trial of Fact)—Lynde, Jenks and McMahon.
Seventh (Final Submission)—Lord, Knott and Lapham.

This disposition of parts seems to assure a thorough and vigorous prosecution of the trial. It is intimated however that even if the Senate take jurisdiction of the matter the trial can not fairly begin before May.

It may be remembered that the House passed a resolution instructing the Sergeant at Arms to procure meals for Kilbourn at a cost not to exceed one dollar a day; the reason for the resolution may be gathered from the following extract from the N. Y. World:

By simply refusing to answer a set of questions put to him by a Congressional committee Mr. Kilbourn secured apartments in a public institution and such an unlimited credit with a great public restaurant that he has been living for more than a fortnight at an average outlay of nearly $10 a day without including an abundant and appropriate wine list. Such a premium upon holding one's tongue was never offered before that we have heard of.

The Republican primary meetings for the selection of delegates to the county convention which has been called to select delegates to the State convention are to be held to-day. The places of voting in the city precincts are designated in another column of this paper. The meetings are to begin at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and continue till 5. Republicans should all attend these primaries, no matter what may be their purposes with reference to local affairs as the convention, for which these meetings are called, has nothing to do with local or county affairs.

Thurlow Weed, in a letter on the political situation, says speaking of Babcock and Belknap: "The Republican party will survive the overthrow of its unworthy representatives provided always that the party is prompt and thorough in its purifications. We should be quick to discern, and as ready to rebuke the dishonesty of officials in our own party as in the party of our opponents. In this way only can Republicans hope to maintain their ascendancy, for much more is expected of us than of our opponents."

The remnant of the Fenians in Limerick known there as Nationalists being offended with the home rulers on account of what they deemed a want of proper regard for the interests of Ireland made, as is stated, a deliberate attempt to break up a political meeting in Limerick, which was being held under the leadership of Mr. Butts and O'Shaughnessy, the Irish home rule members of Parliament. A very serious row was the result in which the Nationalists were decidedly worsted.

The House by a vote of 165 to 7[illegible] agreed to instruct the Sergeant at Arms to produce the body of Hallet Kilbourn before Judge Cartter in obedience to the writ of habeas corpus granted by that judge. The result of this will probably be the release of Kilbourn and the defeat of the efforts of the judiciary committee to make him testify.

LAND FOR IMMIGRANTS.
Choice Farms for Sale.
4,000 ACRES, IN QUANTITIES TO SUIT PURCHASERS.
230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Railroad Depot at Salem, all under cultivation and suitable for grain or vegetables.
910 Acres four miles southeast of Salem on the railroad with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county, with fine springs consisting in part of the old Rector donation claim, on which I raised the past year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre. The first crop of oats ever raised on part of this land measured ninety four bushels per acre, grain weighed and ground chained by Mr. Alfred Stanton of Salem.
2,700 Acres of prairie and light brush land with timber for farming purposes, bounded by the Willamette River for four miles, beautiful lake on the east, boat landings all along the river commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette Valley to be purchased by a colony. To be sold from $1 to $[illegible] per acre. This land will all be immediately resurveyed and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels to suit purchasers. It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage and I can offer any person or persons or colony of persons desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette Valley near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages as well as most favorably located with respect to markets greater advantages on more favorable terms than they can ever expect to realize again.

NO MORE BALDNESS!
MRS. S. LORD, AGENT FOR OREGON AND Washington for Mrs. Moore's Great Scientific HAIR PRODUCER, would announce to ladies and gentlemen who desire the personal adornment of a fine suit of hair, that she has opened parlors for its express treatment. They are emphatically assured she possesses the skill to produce a full crop of hair on all stages of baldness. A few treatments will convince the most skeptical that this is no exaggeration. Weak, decaying and falling hair made strong, healthy and vigorous. No mineral or damaging substances used or disagreeable methods. On the contrary the treatment is pleasant and soothing, bringing the scalp rapidly into a natural healthful tone, and furnishing the proper elements to the bulbs and hair, which is produced in a surprisingly short space of time. Hair guaranteed in all cases where the directions are faithfully followed. Ladies and gentlemen are invited to call at her Parlors and examine photographs of prominent men taken before and after treatment which must remove skepticism. Most satisfactory proof furnished. Parlors No. 16 third floor First National Bank Building, First st., above Washington, Portland. Preparations sent to all parts of Oregon and Washington. apsd2w

NESDAY MORNING APRIL 19 1876

CITY.

THE COLLISION SUIT —Our readers will remember the circumstances of the collision that occurred some time ago between the steamship Oriflamme and the British ship Tanjore, full particulars of which were published in the OREGONIAN at the time. The Tanjore was lying at anchor in the stream near [illegible] Point, and the Oriflamme was on the way down the river, when the collision occurred. Through some mistake or misapprehension as to the position of the lights on board the ship on the part of the pilot, Capt. Brown, the steamer struck the Tanjore and carried away some of her rigging. For this Captain J. J. Smith, master of the Tanjore, instituted an action for damages in behalf of the ship owners, and had the steamer libeled. The damages claimed to have been sustained by reason of the collision—injury to the vessel, cost of repairs, loss of time etc aggregate something over $1000. On the return trip of the Oriflamme to this port she was seized by the U S marshal, but promptly released on the necessary bonds being furnished. This case is to be tried in the U. S. district court and yesterday the 10th of May was fixed as the time for trial.

CUNNING THIEVES —Last evening, about 10 minutes past 8 o'clock a lady, residing on Eighth street between B and C, happened to step to the kitchen door, and was surprised to observe a man helping himself to some clothes which she had forgotten to bring into the house. She called loudly for her husband who, grasping a trusty "shooting iron" rushed out. But he was not quick enough for the fellow, frightened by the lady's calls had fled, and in the darkness made his escape. He however got away with a large sheet and two pillow-cases. The lady states that there were two men—one who stood in the alley to watch, and the other to strip the line. She is certain that both were white men. The other night Mr Tuttle, the expressman lost a quantity of clothes from these night prowlers. Caution is better than cure, and the best way to cheat these thieves is to leave no clothes to flap loosely in the night air.

LIGHT DRAFT BOAT.—The O. S N Co has [illegible] wood, at Celilo the construction of a new steamboat, which is to be built of such light draft that it can ascend and descend the Snake river as far as Lewiston at the lowest stage of water. The boat is designed especially to meet the demands of trade during that portion of the season when navigation has heretofore been suspended. The dimensions of the new craft are. Length 150 feet, beam 30, hold 4½ feet. Work on the new boat will be pushed forward vigorously to completion.

A MIXED SQUAD —A recent San Francisco exchange says "Capt. McDonald's troupe of "Occidentals," a trained band of Indians consisting of five men and four women, were seen yesterday. Their Indian names and tribal relations are Manapinia, Modoc tribe, Villippe Hothlepoya, Apache, Hoolbyteon, Warm Springs, Chotan-wahou mano, Comanche, Halpailer, Micco Hida The women are called Manewalaokoose, Warm Springs, Metakoonga, Modoc, Rantcho Walsume, Apache, Pakshinwan, Comanche.

SOCIABLE.—To-night, at the Taylor street M E church, the members of the Y. L Society intend to hold a sociable, and will try to interest and please all who attend, by presenting a number of exercises musical, literary, etc. Everything possible will be done to render the occasion agreeable. As the proceeds are to be used in furnishing the rear room it is hoped the refreshment stands will be patronized, and visitors may expect courteous attention Admission—including ice cream for two bits per plate—25 cents.

LIBRARY MEMBERSHIPS.—We are requested to state that forty-two perpetual memberships in the Portland Library having been taken to the approval and acceptance of the directors of the [illegible], the subscribers thereto are requested to call at the treasurer, Mr Schuyler, at the First National Bank make their payment and give notes in accordance with the terms of subscription, and obtain their certificates.

KIND DISCRIMINATION —The Journal is authority for the statement that a letter has been received by Judge O N Denny, from Washington, ordering him to discharge the janitor, fireman and watchman in the U S custom house and postoffice building in this city, and also to discontinue the use of gas and water, in consequence of the appropriations for such purposes being exhausted.

MEMORIAL DAY.—The members of Baker & Canby Post propose to observe with the customary services, Memorial or Decoration day, which will occur on the 30th of May. Some weeks ago a committee was appointed by the Post to consummate all necessary arrangements for the proper celebration of the event. This committee are at work now and everything will be arranged in time.

A SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.—Drs Kinney and [illegible] performed a difficult surgical operation last [illegible]day, on a woman residing in East Portland. The operation involved the removal of a large tumor from the woman's shoulder, which weighed 6½ pounds. The professional gentlemen accomplished the operation quite successfully, and the patient at last accounts was doing very well.

HELD TO ANSWER.—Jim Tong, an unterrified Mongolian, was arrested on a charge of selling cigars without being boxed and stamped, as required by law, and had an examination yesterday before U S Commissioner Wilcox. He was held to answer and his bonds fixed at $500.

"THE PEACE COUNCIL OF '55"—Any person having copy of the pamphlet, by Lawrence Kip, of proceedings of this council, held near Walla Walla in the year 1855, will confer a special favor by loaning the same to Colonel H. Clay Wood, at department military headquarters.

JUDGES OMITTED.—Through inadvertence the names of the judges of election appointed by the county court for South Portland precinct were omitted from the list published yesterday. The judges appointed for that precinct are, John Rines, Harry Morgan and J A Keller.

CITY RIFLE ELECTION —This evening a special meeting will be held by the City Rifles at their armory, for the purpose of electing the non-commissioned officers of that company. It is desirable to have a full attendance.

STAGE OF THE RIVER.

Between the hours of 9 o clock A M and 2 P M, yesterday, the river at this place rose over 4 inches. A strong current was running but not so much driftwood was passing as on the preceding day. The water lacked only a short distance of reaching the lower floor of the O S N and O S S Co's docks and preparations were made to move to the second story. Unless there is a subsidence of the water it will be necessary soon to change matters along the lower docks. Dispatches from the several points named indicate the following stage of water

[illegible], April 18 —The river at this point is falling quite rapidly

[illegible]—Here the river has been falling since early last night

[illegible]—At this place the river is virtually at a stand still neither rising nor falling

OREGON CITY —The river is at a stand still in front the falls but since last night has risen one foot below

LOCKS —The water is within four inches of the gates at the Oregon City locks

[illegible] —The river has risen nine inches at this place during the past twenty four hours

Watts the prisoner who got away from the Fort Madison jail Thursday evening of last week it is pretty certain left the island last Saturday night and his escape is probably a settled thing

In 1875 according to a speech in the Dominion parliament from Oregon and Washington Territory there were sent into British Columbia 758 horses and 1,281 head of cattle which were entered at less than half their value on bogus invoices There were also sent 1 454 swine 8 400 sheep and other things in proportion

George Snell a miner at [illegible] Utah, recently fell in love with Mrs Pollock of American Fork, who had separated from her husband and tried to induce her to procure a divorce and marry him This she refused to do and on Sunday after trying in vain to induce her to change her resolution he shot her inflicting injuries of which she died the same night and then blew his brains out

James H Jarrett, a smart Missourian who by his industry in signing other people's names to checks and things without their knowledge or consent raked together several thousand dollars and came West to grow up with the mountains has come to grief He bought a ranch down by Greeley and expected to settle down and become an exemplary citizen of that temperance village, when like a thief in the night a St Louis detective stole up on to him and now he is on his way back to Davis county Missouri with irons on his legs

The Cheyenne Sun tells how the Sunday night theatricals at McDaniels theater in that wicked city were temporarily interrupted by the appearance at the door of a man named Riley hunting for another man named Deasy whom he found without any trouble To abbreviate the story, as told in the Sun Deasy saluted Riley with a shot from a revolver the bullet passing through the rim of his beaver and cut off a choice tuft of his hair The police collared the would be murderer and the performance went ahead as if nothing unusual had happened

REMARKABLE DISAPPEARANCE OF GEORGIA LAKES

A third lake in Lowndes county has been emptied of its waters by subterranean passages during the last six months What is the matter? The Times has several times alluded to the fact that Lowndes county had within its borders, numbers of lakes, from ten to 500 (and several beyond 1,000 acres in size) and can it be that these lakes are all connected with a grand underground water course? It seems so In September last one dried up or ran off and left bushels upon bushels of fish in holes of water about the bottom of the lake. In January another, about five miles from this did the same thing and now Grassy Pond, a lake covering about five hundred acres just between the two above mentioned, has left its millions of fishes out of water. About three weeks ago it was reported that the waters of this lake were sinking below low water mark, and every day or two we would hear that it was still going down Last Friday a report spread all over the country like wildfire that Grassy Pond was low enough to rake the fish out with nets and about sun down more than one hundred people had collected at the place Some had dip nets, some cast nets and there was one seine in the party The first haul with the seine caught enough trout, jack bream and speckle perch to make a mess for every one present. During that night all the water disappeared, and there were millions of fish left dead upon dry land Saturday next day, the planters hitched up their wagons and hauled load after load and scattered them in their fields for manure and thousands were left at the mercy of buzzards, hogs and other creatures of prey Such quantities of fish and such destruction has never been known in the history of Lowndes county No one ever dreamed that there was half that quantity of fish in Grassy pond though it was celebrated for its fine fishing grounds in the spring of the year The other two lakes above mentioned did not run thus completely dry and the fish that were not caught were saved by the water returning in a few days from its hidden retreat in the bosom of the earth We learn that Grassy pond is filling up again but it is too late to save the finny tribe These statements are not at all exaggerated and can be testified to by several hundred people living in this county though it is marvelous to all — Valdosta (Ga) Times

THE LORD'S CHURCH

The city fair
The holy city from on high descending
The Lord's own church, is neither here nor there
No hand can bound His glory, wide extending,
Nor check its light which shineth broad and fair
For all to share

It is not found
In forms alone, in laws of man's fronting,
The city of the Lord can have no bound
Of church or sect, of narrow bounds in making,
The Lord's free gifts may not be hedged around
In earthly bound

And thus we see
His church is every place where men endeavor
His laws to keep, His followers to be,
To love to work, to be His servants ever,
Ah, yes! whenever men in love agree
His church we see.

With open hand
The Lord thro' all the world His grace is sending,
To every one He speaks the blest command
"Come unto me, eat the bread of heaven,
The feast is spread, the doors wide open stand
Come take my hand"

AT BEST

BY JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY

The faithful helm commands the keel,
From port to port fair breezes blow
But the ship must sail the convex sea,
Nor may she straighter go

So, man to man in fair accord
On thought and will the winds may wait
But the world will bend the passing word,
Though its shortest course be straight

From soul to soul the shortest line
At best will bended be
The ship that holds the straightest course
Still sails the convex sea.

THE TOMB OF AKBER.

The afternoon was devoted to an excursion in open carriages to what is perhaps the grandest tomb in the world as the Taj is certainly the most beautiful—Secundra, where lie the remains of Akber, to whom India, Hindoo and Mussulman, accords the title of "Great" Some six miles from camp the modern tourist sees before him a grand gateway in a quadrangle inclosure, with octagon minarets at each angle. This gives access to a garden, in the center of which is the mausoleum, a square of noble masonry of red sandstone, 300 feet a side, built in five stories, each diminishing in area from the base, which measures 300 feet to the screen-work of marble which surrounds the marble story at the summit at the height of 100 feet from the bottom. Every terrace is ornamented with an arched gallery and cupolas, and these were said to bear relation to the divisions of the empire over which he who now rests below, once ruled in dignity and power. This grand pile is approached by a causeway from each of the four gateways—one in each of the lofty battlemented walls surrounding the garden. Two hundred and sixty-three years have elapsed since the tomb was finished. The son of the Queen of that England which was then represented in this land by a few adventurous merchants and mariners and one or two wandering travelers, whose greatest wonder was that they were there at all, now stood before the sarcophagus within which lie the bones of the fourth descendant of Tamerlane, grandson of Baber, grandfather of Shah Jehan—stood there acknowledged heir to the scepter which had been wielded with such grandeur and might—successor to the throne of Akber the Great, whose titles one might read in the exquisitely carved inscriptions, ascribing to him majesty and glory forever. Secundra stands amid ruins, some ascribed to Lake's army, others to the Jats, others to 1857-58. It is a fitting scene for a sermon on the rise and fall of empire and on the vanity of human wishes. The Mahometans liked the idea of the Prince's visit to the beautiful creation of Mahometan art, and accepted it as a sort of tribute to the glories of the dynasty of Akber. The Hindoo was not adverse to such an exhibition of the power of the race which had conquered his conqueror as that which was patent in the appearance of a quietly dressed gentleman, walking in evident ease through the crowds which filled the avenues to the tomb, almost unguarded and in perfect security.

IN THE TOMB.

Their behavior was perfect, as the Prince passed there were salaams and silence. Ascending to the terrace or esplanade on which the Taj is erected, the Prince, Sir J. and Lady Strachey and the headquarters party walked over to the shelter of the dark gateway of the mosque, from the summit of which the Taj was to be lighted up. Gradually there grew out in all its beauty the marble "Queen of Sorrow," which has power to dim every eye, in all its fair proportions, framed in the purple of the starry heavens. The light cast on it from above was steady and pure, it seemed as though the full moon had been turned on from behind a cloud. At the base of the Taj some hundred yards away, as it looked, was a great crowd, which was not homogeneous, and on the gallery of one of the four minarets appeared in black coat and white tie a model European, who was, I am glad to say, taken by most people whose eyes were unaided by glasses to be a doorway. Then trooping into the illuminated square came a band, and forthwith the soft tender notes of "Vedral carino" floated through the night air. From the darkness of the arch the Prince descended to the marble esplanade, and mounted to the terrace round the Taj. Then all entered the tomb itself—the culminating glory. They stood and gazed, almost trembling with admiration. The interior has been carefully restored; no longer are Vandal subalterns allowed to pick out the flowers which wander through the marble in exquisite abandon of t[illegible] and present them to their lady-loves at [illegible] all is swept cleaned and, as far as [illegible] restored. If Shah Jehan could come b[illegible] earth it is not too much to suppose he would thank Sir John Strachey for the labor of love which has stayed the hand of the spoiler. It was, indeed, only a few hours ago, that a gentleman was found busy with knife-blade at a mosaic here. "If any magistrate orders that man three dozen, be he black or white, I will take the responsibility of it," exclaimed the Lieutenant Governor "on my own shoulders." At last the Prince left, and the shrouded figures of the four natives up in the arches aloft, which might be taken for shades of holy Sheiks looking down on the strange company, faded away out of sight.

After such a sensation as that, the Holy Jumna, with its placid bosom stemmed with star-like lamps, could offer little attraction. There were, thank goodness, no fireworks for this occasion only. It was quite sufficient to look down from the terrace and watch the tiny boats of earthenware, each large as a coffee cup, bearing their cargoes of oil or cotton wick on the placid stream, which multiplied their fires, to look across at the wide expanse of gardens and kiosks, minarets, cupolas and domes writing occult characters on the blackness of the night and then let the eye turn slowly on the Taj. It was near midnight before the Prince was minded to quit the place. As he moved along the esplanade the crowd, mostly of native gentlemen but with many Europeans, gathered along the walk and officers and others preceding the Prince made way through the crowd with more energy than politeness. Conspicuous for his zeal and violence in shoving all comers away was a European in a white hat and morning dress. The rudeness with which he pushed some Indians (one a Rajah) attracted the Prince's attention and he sent Mr Knollys to express his extreme displeasure at such behavior and to request the gentleman to desist. Mr Knollys obeyed orders to the letter. But the man in the white hat appeared to pay little attention to the energetic remark that "his conduct was most offensive and improper, and that he would be turned out if it was not repeated." The Duke of Sutherland came to enforce Mr Knollys's observations, which he did with peculiar emphasis, and as the others of the suite expressed their opinions in a similar tone it was impossible for the object of their attentions to labor under doubt respecting their opinions. It is believed that he is in the public service, and it is to be hoped he will learn from this incident to moderate his heroic methods. It is a pity the Prince's eyes can not be everywhere on such occasions. It may be doubted however if those on whose behalf the interference occurred were aware of its nature. There was an outburst of cheers as the Prince left the Taj from the Europeans and salaams from natives.

Pope Pius IX is not only a man of the purest artistic sense and culture in music, but a master of the organ and a remarkable singer. His voice is even now very sweet and powerful, and when he sings at High Mass, all who hear him are struck by the superb manner in which he executes the difficult Gregorian chant. He disapproves of the tendency to import operatic and other profane music into the church service, but does not share the ultra severity of that party who would reform church music into the antique plain chant.

The money market is undisturbed by any special movement to-day. The supply being ample to answer the requirements of ordinary trade and no special demand existing the market is kept in a very quiet state. The trade dollar is still giving rise to some speculation and it is wondered whether the question is going to be left to settle itself or whether some action on the part of government or the Congress will help the Pacific to any relief in that regard. The past two or three days have witnessed some improvement, but the discount on all silver coin is a matter of considerable inconvenience yet. A San Francisco exchange thinks the production of silver is altogether ahead of the demand and is likely to continue so for some time. Just now our government is a large buyer of silver to replace the fractional currency but its wants in this respect will soon be at an end, unless it is designed to replace the legal tender notes with silver as well as the fractional notes. Government has already upwards of $15,000,000 in silver coin on hand and enough silver bullion purchased to coin $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 more. There is besides at least $4,000,000 in trade dollars in private hands on this coast and probably $2,000,000 in other silver coin. Legal tenders and silver coin are about on a par with each other at the East and will likely sustain the same relation after the retirement of the fractional currency.

Domestic Produce.

There seems to be a general disposition on the part of wheat buyers to wait awhile, under the present condition of affairs before making any active move either in the way of handling the remaining surplus of the old crop or in preparing for the business of the next harvest year. The only vessels here to load are the Thorndike and River Lune the Salem flouring mills loading the former with wheat and the Oregon City mills loading the latter with flour. What disposition, if any has been made of the bark Caller Ou has not yet been reported. Under such circumstances it is not strange that the market should be very quiet though some shippers, who are reported out of the market, are so only because it is as well to be out as in when there is nothing to do. Prices are unchanged and almost entirely nominal. There can be no doubt that there is quite a surplus, say 10,000 or 12,000 tons, of wheat yet in our State available for export, but at this time there appears to be but a small disposition to buy, and nearly as little to sell.

Oats which took quite a "spurt" and went up to 80 cts. in some cases for choice lots and 75 cts. for common to best feed, have dropped and now dealers are offering 70@72 cts. per bushel and the market is duller. Mill feed of all kinds is scarce and of bran there is none in the market. Prices continue to rule very high for the season affording some relief to the millers who claim that but for the good prices for offal they would be compelled to shut down in the present condition of the wheat and flour markets. Hay is in moderate supply and good timothy sells freely at $16 per ton. Potatoes are in light receipts and prices are well sustained at our quotations. Apples are the only seasonable domestic fruit in the market, and consumers as well as shippers pay handsomely for those varieties which are in the market in good condition. Dried fruit is growing in importance as an article of trade and export, and prices as will be seen are 2@3 cts per lb higher than last season. Provisions are in active demand at remunerative prices. Nothing is yet being done in the wool trade.

A Rare Medicinal Combination.

Perhaps the rarest, certainly the most successful medicinal combination extant is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. In this commanding, tonic corrective and preventive are blended some of the most actively invigorating alterative and blood depurating elements in the vegetable kingdom. These are held in solution and powerfully aided by the best diffusive stimulant known—rye whisky. Is it any wonder that easy digestion regular evacuations a natural flow of bile purity of the blood and cheerfulness of mind should be vigorously promoted by a preparation in which such admirable ingredients are first harmoniously combined and act in perfect unison. The faith felt by the medical profession in its restorative efficacy of this medicine and its power to nullify the influence of malaria is expressed in the signatures of many eminent physicians and their expression of confidence are fully ratified by the people and the press.

POND'S EXTRACT

"Hear, for I will speak of excellent things."

POND'S EXTRACT—The great Vegetable Pain Destroyer. Has been in use over thirty years, and for cleanliness and prompt curative virtues cannot be excelled.

CHILDREN. No family can afford to be without Pond's Extract. Accidents, Bruises, Contusions, Cuts, Sprains, are relieved almost instantly by external application. Promptly relieves pains of Burns, Scalds, Excoriations, Chafings, Old Sores, Boils, Felons, Corns, etc. Arrests inflammation, reduces swellings, stops bleeding, removes discoloration and heals rapidly.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES. It always relieves pain in the back and loins, fullness and pressing pain in the head, nausea, vertigo.

IN LEUCORRHŒA it has no equal. All kinds of ulcerations to which ladies are subject are promptly cured. Fuller details in book accompanying each bottle.

PILES—blind or bleeding—meet prompt relief and ready cure. No case, however chronic or obstinate, can long resist its regular use.

VARICOSE VEINS. It is the only sure cure.

KIDNEY DISEASES. It has no equal for permanent cure.

BLEEDING from any cause. For this it is a specific. It has saved hundreds of lives when all other remedies failed to arrest bleeding from nose, stomach, lungs, and elsewhere.

TOOTHACHE, Earache, Neuralgia and Rheumatism are all alike relieved, and often permanently cured.

PHYSICIANS of all schools who are acquainted with Pond's Extract of Witch Hazel recommend it in their practice. We have letters of commendation from hundreds of Physicians, many of whom order it for use in their own practice. In addition to the foregoing, they order its use for Swellings of all kinds, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Inflamed Tonsils, simple and chronic Diarrhoea, Catarrh (for which it is a specific), Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Stings of Insects, Musquitoes, etc., Chapped Hands, Face, and indeed all manner of skin diseases.

TOILET USE. Removes Soreness, Roughness and Smarting; heals Cuts, Eruptions and Pimples. It revives, invigorates and refreshes, while wonderfully improving the Complexion.

TO FARMERS—Pond's Extract. No Stock Breeder, no Livery Man can afford to be without it. It is used by all the leading Livery Stables, Street Railroads and first Horsemen in New York City. It has no equal for Sprains, Harness or Saddle Chafings, Stiffness, Scratches, Swellings, Cuts, Lacerations, Bleedings, Pneumonia, Colic, Diarrhœa, Chills, Colds, &c. Its range of action is wide, and the relief it affords is so prompt that it is invaluable in every Farm-yard as well as in every Farm-house. Let it be tried once, and you will never be without it.

CAUTION! Pond's Extract has been imitated. The genuine article has the words Pond's Extract blown in each bottle. It is prepared by the only persons living who ever knew how to prepare it properly. Refuse all other preparations of Witch Hazel. This is the only article used by Physicians and in the hospitals of this country and Europe.
